

OnMyGrad aims to establish a universal channel for tertiary education students from all different backgrounds and eliminate the information gap brought by socio-economic inequality in their “School-to-work” transition.

- Strive in democratising the job search process by leveraging corporate resources and providing information that was previously only available to elite students

Social Impact:

- Covering around 1/3 of the university students in Hong Kong, providing more than 20 immersive job experiences (Industry learning courses and job-tasting experiential projects) for users and attained more than 4,900 learning hours
- Apart from its online platform OnMyGrad.space, the team also conducted more than 30 online and offline workshops for more than 1,500 participants partnering with tertiary institutions, secondary schools and NGO serving students with disabilities
